

The humor of this reprint speaks for itself. Ernest Rogers writes in the Atlanta (Ga.) Journal as follows:

"The Young Man hadn't visited me for several months but there he stood beside my desk wearing that faintly quizzical look on his face that has indicated in the past that he had a question to ask. Nor was I mistaken.

"As a newspaperman," he began after politely clearing his throat, "you undoubtedly attend a lot of meetings. When I become a reporter do you think I will like that feature of my work?"

"I leaned back for a moment to collect my thoughts.

"It is entirely possible that you may," I said. "And, on the other hand, it is entirely possible that you may not."

"The Young Man looked puzzled.

"Is that any kind of an answer?" he inquired.

"I gave him a very calm look before proceeding.

"My answer may appear to you as not exactly positive," I said. "But the truth of the matter is that you will enjoy some meetings and will not enjoy others."

"Which ones will I enjoy?" the Young Man asked, brightly.

"The ones in which the speaking is reduced to a minimum and the menu does not include chilled mashed potatoes, aged-in-the-can English peas and similar customary items of public meeting fare," I explained.

"And among the 'other items' I have particularly in mind is 'ham and raisin sauce'." To me it has not yet become apparent why good ham is consistently ruined by the addition of raisin sauce. But that's the way it is.

"The Young Man nodded in his chair.

"Is the table fare of importance at a meeting?" he asked.

"Of the utmost," I replied. "If one is irked by the food before the speaking begins one will not be pleased by the oratory even if it were good — although the odds against the yanking being good are usually quoted at about 9 to 1."

"But it is sometimes possible to enjoy a meeting which you are assigned to cover?" he wanted to know.

"Of course," I replied. "The law of averages pertains to public meetings as it does to everything else. Although you may sometimes think that luck has completely abandoned you there will come a change for the better in time although matters generally get a little worse before they get a little better."

"The Young Man pondered for a moment.

"And how do reporters usually feel about being assigned to meetings?" he finally asked.

"They usually refer to it as getting a free meal the hard way," I replied.

"And do they fight for these assignments?"

"Sometimes — with the understanding that the loser goes."

"The Young Man assumed his customary air of bafflement.

"I don't think you have been very helpful," he commented.

"Neither do I," was my response.

"As a matter of fact, if you will kindly excuse me, I'll be on my way."

"Where?"

"I gave a hollow laugh.

"To attend a meeting," was my succinct response.

Nashville Woman Fights Off Attacker

Local officers were summoned to Nashville about 10:30 Saturday night to help search for an unidentified man who attacked Mrs. W. F. Coburn, 19, as she stepped to the back of her house.

A man grabbed the woman, tore her clothing and fled when Mrs. Coburn answered her screams. She was unarmed except for shock.

Sheriff Claude Stuart's bloodhound was rushed to the scene but the dog was unable to pick up the track.

State Patrolman Louis Hilton and Deputy Sheriff Allen Shipp took the animal to Nashville.

Minor Damage in Wreck at Emmet

An auto driven by Robert Lee Stewart, Emmet negro, collided with another driven by H. C. Gaines of Hope yesterday at an intersection in Emmet. Nobody was hurt but both vehicles were slightly damaged.

Investigating state officer Louis Hilton said Stewart pulled into an intersection into the path of the Gaines car.

Markets

Cotton futures opened thirty-five cents a bale higher to fifteen cents lower. Grain got off to a firm start on the Chicago Board of Trade with wheat and soybeans showing strongest. Hogs are mostly fifty cents lower. Slaughter cattle are mostly steady to fifty cents lower. Wholesale meats are irregularly steady to strong.

A steady tone ruled in the grain market on the Chicago Board of Trade today despite the fact that dealers were rather slow. Cold weather and hopes for exports this week acted as the main props under the market.

U. S., Argentine Ships Collide, 238 Are Saved

Gremerhaven, Germany, Nov. 5 — The $4,000,000 motorship Maipu — pride of Argentina's merchant landing was rammed by a U.S. troopship and sank in the foggy North Sea yesterday. The transport and German rescue craft saved all 238 persons aboard the Argentine vessel.

The troopship, the Gen. M. L. Hersey — her howl staved in by the collision — limped into Bremerhaven last night with many Maipu survivors aboard. A special train was chartered to take them to Hamburg, the Maipu's port of call.

The Maipu's captain, Juan Marquetti, picked up by the German lightship Weser after the crash, said in a ship-to-shore radio interview that his 30 passengers and 158 crewmen kept calm throughout the ordeal.

"They left the ship quietly," he said. "There were no incidents."

The fact that the usually rough North Sea was calm under its fog blanket was said to have played a large part in the 100 per cent successful rescue.

The 12,000-ton Maipu and the 10,000-ton transport, groping through early morning fog, collided 15 miles offshore, near the German island of Wangeroog. The crash hole in the Maipu's port side.

Witnesses said the Argentine vessel began to list immediately, but stayed afloat for three hours — another big factor in the successful rescue. Passengers aboard the stricken vessel included 30 children.

The Hersey immediately began searching through the mists for lifeboats with survivors. Soon after the Hersey and smaller German craft joined in.

The last lifeboat with 15 aboard was not spotted until after the Maipu had gone down.

Officers aboard the Hersey, carrying U.S. 43rd Division troops to Germany, refused to discuss the collision. They said an official statement would be issued later.

One American officer commented only that "everything's okay now."

In Washington the number of those aboard the Hersey was given as: From the 43rd division, 163 officers and 2,590 men; casual replacements, about 120 officers and some 120 men.

The Maipu, built recently in a Dutch shipyard for the Argentine government line, was en route to Hamburg, after a stop at Amsterdam, with a cargo of frozen meat, coffee and grain, and the passenger complement.

The trim Argentine ship could accommodate 800 passengers.

Field Meet Wednesday at Nelson Farm

There are a lot of good farm timber management practices to be observed on the W. E. Nelson farm near Washington says County Agent Oliver L. Adams.

A field meeting is scheduled at the W. E. Nelson farm southwest of Washington for Wednesday afternoon, November 7th beginning at 1:30 o'clock. All individuals interested in timber production, timber utilization and removing hardwood sprouts, and timber from prospective improved pasture areas are invited to attend.

Forester Robert E. Nelson of the Arkansas Resources and Development Commission will explain the farm forestry program on the farm with the assistance of Mr. Nelson.

Each year for eight years Mr. Nelson has been setting a limited acreage to pine seedlings. At the present time he is expecting 10,000 loblob pine on order from the Arkansas Resources and Development commission nursery at Bluff City. These pine seedlings are used to set off fields.

Other areas of the Nelson farm will be observed Wednesday afternoon to be natural seeded. Fire protection to timber and pasture lands is a must of Mr. Nelson. A type of selective harvesting is practiced.

A demonstration in the most promising methods in the control of certain unwanted hardwoods will be given by County Agent Adams and Forester Robert Nelson. This demonstration will include the use of 2,4,5-T and Ammate as recommended for pasture land and pine improvement to get the least sprouting. These hardwood killers are not harmful to human beings or animals.

A new figure in the field of interplanetary travel makes his debut in Hope Star today. He's Chris Welkin, planeteer, handsome young hero of the comic strip that bears his name.

Welkin is a keen-minded, adventure loving earth man who gets mixed up with some of the most amazing cosmic characters you've ever seen. Captured by space-borne invaders from a distant planet, he soon finds himself soaring through the endless universe in a "flying triangle" — headed for a fascinating career as a Planeteer.

Chris Welkin is the creation of a talented author-artist team in the headquarters of the world's largest newspaper feature organization, NEA Service. Russ Winterbotham is widely known for the scores of science fiction stories he has written for books and magazines. Art Sansom received this major assignment after several years of training in various techniques at NEA's comic art department in Cleveland, Ohio.

"We have set the time of our story in 1999 — a year many readers will live to see," Winterbotham explains. And on the basis of present scientific knowledge and progress, it is highly probable that space travel may be a reality by then."

The author will have Welkin exploring "outer space" — the regions of the universe beyond our own solar system. This is because only a few "nearby" planets, like Mars and Venus, offer possibilities of life. But in the astral areas beyond, already explored by powerful telescopes, there are countless other worlds whose wonders will be depicted by the imaginative pen of artist Sansom.

Chris Welkin is an engineer, an expert in guided missiles, rocket power and astral science. He has sent rockets to the moon, and has personal space exploration. When confronted by interplanetary bad men, he holds that principles of right over wrong are universal and is ready to fight to back his theory.

To support this capable hero, Winterbotham adds a mysterious beauty, a sinister space villain, a comic professor, an eager college youth, assorted rocket ships, futuristic uniforms and weapons, and a generous portion of atom-speed action. Sansom's illustrations hold unusual fascination for the reader and their technical perfection will captivate science fiction fans.

Both author and artist spent many months of research in the development of Chris Welkin. Winterbotham was already well qualified as a science adventure expert with his many stories in such magazines as Astounding Science Fiction, Fantastic Adventures, Comet, Future Stories and Marvel Tales. A graduate of the University of Kansas, he spent several years as a newspaperman before turning to fiction full time.

He is now fiction editor of NEA Service, is married and has a teenage daughter.

Sansom has had an intense interest in man's conquest of space since school days. Even in art classes at Ohio Wesleyan University his doodles took the form of rocket ships and planetary figures. He has since directed his versatile pen toward cartooning commercial art and fiction illustration, and has drawn a teenage comic strip for NEA for several years. He expects his young son Chip (age 6 months) will become an avid Chris Welkin fan before long.

Be sure to follow the entertaining adventures of Chris Welkin, Planeteer, every day on the comic page of Hope Star.

British Tank, Crew Disappears

Cairo, Nov. 5 (AP) — The leftist weekly Al-Ahram said today a British tank with four men aboard "disappeared" yesterday in the troubled Suez Canal zone between Port Said and Kantara. The paper said they "probably were captured by liberation battalions."

A British army spokesman said he had received no report of any such incident.

In what appears to be a drive to rout out the Egyptian underground in the canal zone, British troops ringed the village of Serapeh yesterday and combed the hamlet for hidden arms. A British army spokesman said the searchers found a few guns.

More Korean War Casualties

Washington, Nov. 5 (AP) — The defense department identified 233 more Korean war casualties today. Of the total, 76 are dead, 137 wounded, 14 missing and six injured in battlezone accidents.

A list released last night contained the names of 1,193 members of the armed forces — the second heaviest casualty list of the war. Officials said most of the casualties were suffered in the week which ended Oct. 15, during heavy fighting which preceded the resumption of truce talks.

The war's largest casualty list, published Oct. 8, 1950, contained 1,211 names.

The department's latest summary of casualties listed 14,393 killed in action, 68,641 wounded and 12,536 missing.

Weather Blamed for 177 Deaths Over the Nation

By United Press

The death toll caused by a vast, pre-winter cold wave mounted today as the frigid weather blanketed the nation from Maine to Oregon and south to the Gulf of Mexico — with no relief in sight.

At least 177 deaths were attributed to the weather. Traffic accidents caused 110, 10 persons died in fires caused by overheated stoves, seven drowned, two froze to death and 14 died in miscellaneous mishaps.

Crop damage was extensive, particularly in the south where the unreasonable cold spell hit cotton and citrus crops.

The Chicago weather bureau said it could foresee no end to the frosty weather. The forecasters said scattered locations might get some relief from the cold, but it would be only temporary.

A near-blizzard that whipped across the north central states Saturday howled into Canada and more snow was on the way, the weathermen said.

Snow was forecast along the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains and extended through Colorado, Kansas and southern Missouri.

Ohio led the nation with 17 weather deaths, 13 of them on icy highways and four caused by fires.

A private plane was caught in a blinding snowstorm and plunged into Union Lake near Union City, Mich., killing three persons. The pilot, Clifford Potter, 35, was rescued by two men who witnessed the crash and launched a rowboat.

A bed-ridden, paralyzed man and two children died when fire caused by an overheated stove swept their four-room frame house at Bridgeport, O.

Five persons were killed near Sioux Falls, S. C., when their car skidded on an ice-covered highway and smashed into a pole.

Victor Emmanuel Nelson, 66, of Minneapolis, froze to death near Brigg Lake, Minn., after he collapsed from exhaustion while tramping through deep snow. He had tried to leave his snowbound summer cabin on which he had been working.

The lowest temperatures in the nation were recorded in Minnesota and the Dakotas. Bismarck, N. D., registered five below, Grand Forks and Jamestown, N. D., each registered one below.

Cold weather records were shattered across the nation. At Chicago, the temperature was expected to drop to 10 degrees, almost 14 degrees below the previous record for Nov. 5 established in 1901.

The frigid weather stretched far to the south. Jacksonville, Fla., reported 41 at midnight. New Orleans had 42, Tampa 46 and Miami 64.

At Detroit, police said an eight-month-old baby boy was frosted in his crib because his salesman father failed to pay rent on the family apartment for one year and the landlord cut off the heat. The apartment had no windows.

The Supreme court's unanimous opinion said stock certificates should be issued to the minority faction and that their votes must be counted at stockholders' meetings.

Also affirmed was a Pope Chancery court decree that Anna Dorn Hulson was due $1,607 for sale of a farm to her brother, Henry Dorn.

A contract between the late Mrs. E. Mooney and C. J. Gant, giving the latter rights to take sand and gravel from a 120-acre tract in Columbia county, was upheld as valid when the Supreme court affirmed a Columbia Chancery court decree. Sons of Mrs. Mooney had sought to have the instrument set aside.

Walkout Ends Plant Strike

Memphis, Nov. 5 (AP) — A strike that started Oct. 10 at the Borg-Warner corporation plant here ended this morning.

James P. Harden, international representative of the CIO United Auto Workers, said all 275 of the strikers voted to return to work last night.

The vote was taken at the request of the union's top policy committee in Detroit. The committee recommended that the strike be halted while the wage stabilization board studies the dispute.

The strike demand that contact bargaining be on an industry-wide basis, rather than division-by-division.

Some 6,500 employees are affected in the five states in which the 10 divisions are located. The plant here is part of the mechanical universal joint division.

Trucker Charged With Murder

Rogers, Nov. 5 (AP) — A 29-year-old milk truck driver has been charged with second degree murder in the fatal stabbing of Benton County Road Supervisor Paul Bowman, 42.

The charge was filed Saturday against Ralph Shrader who is accused of plunging a knife into the heart of Bowman during a fight near here last Friday.

A Rogers physician said he massaged Bowman's heart in a futile effort to keep the wounded man alive.

Sheriff John Black said Shrader admitted being in a fight with Bowman but said he didn't remember stabbing him.

Price Clinic to Be Held Tuesday at Cof C Office

Another Office of Price Stabilization "price clinic" for businessmen has been scheduled for Hope.

Ray Lawrence, Manager of the Hope Chamber of Commerce, has announced that two OPS representatives will be at the Chamber of Commerce Office Tuesday afternoon, November 6, from 1 to 5 p. m.

Stockholders Favored by Court Ruling

Little Rock, Nov. 5 (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme court ruled today in favor of a minority group of stockholders in a dispute over stock certificate issuance by the Merchants and Planters bank of West Memphis.

By doing so it upheld a Circuit court equity court decision, which had been applied by directors of the bank.

But the high court said it was "impossible to clear the record of the ill will and personal 'digs' that it found injected into the case."

A minority group of stockholders had filed suit to force a majority group to issue stock certificates. Capital bank stock was 500 shares.

Five majority stockholders, controlling 285 shares, entered into a voting trust agreement on Dec. 12, 1949, providing that no stock be sold to anyone not a party to the agreement.

Jack Rich, a businessman, owned 103 shares of the remaining 215 shares of stock at that time, and sold 26 of them in November 1950, to J. H. Spears, L. R. O' Bryan, R. Falls and James Wood.

They were refused admittance to a stockholders meeting. The majority group also refused to count the minority's votes. Legal action which followed brought testimony by the majority that each secretly acquired stock in an attempt to get control of the bank.

The Supreme court's unanimous opinion said stock certificates should be issued to the minority faction and that their votes must be counted at stockholders' meetings.

Also affirmed was a Pope Chancery court decree that Anna Dorn Hulson was due $1,607 for sale of a farm to her brother, Henry Dorn.

DOROTHY DIX

Will Love Last?

Dear Miss Dix: I intend to be married within a short time, and there is one problem that has been bothering me on the subject. Why doesn't the love shown by couples before marriage last? It seems to me, watching older people, that their affection for each other dies out. Could you please suggest a way to keep the affection we have?

Answer: You are laboring under a fallacy, the love young people have for each other before marriage actually increases through later life. In the vast majority of cases, what does lessen is the wild love of romantic bliss that keeps young people awake nights and takes poor Tomboy's appetite away. Such a condition cannot last forever, or the lovers would fade away.

I have known countless couples who, after fifteen, twenty, twenty-five or more years of marriage, could honestly say they loved each other more than on the wedding day. This love is a deep emotion compounded of mutual respect, admiration, loyalty, and devotion with more than a dash of youthful enthusiasm. To the casual onlooker all these elements may not be apparent, but you will see them in the little attentions married people pay each other, the pleasure they have in each other's company, the pride in each other's accomplishments.

You'll Have Good Life
Don't worry about losing your mutual affection. The fact that it worries you indicates a desire to make every effort to promote it. The essential values of marriage matrimony is a partnership. Both partners must have full realization of their responsibilities, of the obstacles to be encountered, and an earnest desire to maintain a happy life together.

Be mindful of your marriage vows. Determine to keep them to the letter and your wedding day will mark the beginning of a life in which each year will find you and your husband more in love than ever.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 15 and my best friend is the same age. We have known each other for many years, during which we shared everything. Then the other night she struck me in anger because she was mad at someone else. She has never done anything like that before and she apologized. I didn't accept it then. What should I do? Should I pocket my pride and be friends again?

Answer: Your friend's action in striking you was wrong, but she did apologize and you can ask nothing more. You should have accepted her peace offering when she made it. Now you are in the wrong and must make the next advance, which I strongly urge you to do as soon as possible.

(Human nature being as frail as it is, no two people can live in close contact without offending each other at least occasionally. If we never forgave these transgressions, probably no one would have a friend in the world. The essence of friendship is to realize the faults of others and overlook them. None of us, after all, is perfect.)

Don't let a friendship of such long standing break up because of foolish pride.

Dear Miss Dix: How can I convince my mother to let me arch my eyebrows and shave my legs? I'm 13 years old.

Answer: Arched eyebrows on a 13 year old girl would be ludicrous, to say the least. Let them follow their natural lines for a few more years anyway. As for your legs, shaving them will only make matters worse. If you have a superfluous hair problem, use a preparation made especially for the purpose. Your mother would probably consent to this.

Iran to Reopen Oil Refineries
Teheran, Iran, Nov. 5 (AP)—Iran announced today that "with the help of God" it has begun temporary operation of a major unit of the Abadan oil refinery, from which the British were expelled at the height of the British-Iranian oil quarrel.

The government said present plans call for operating the unit only a month, to retail storage tanks with oil for domestic consumption.

This unit, which has a yearly capacity of 3,000,000 tons, will produce automobile gasoline, kerosene, diesel fuel and asphalt, and would permit refining about 250,000 tons a month.

Spends Night Stuck in Mud

Warren, Nov. 5 (AP)—Dr. M. T. Crow, 74-year-old Warren physician, and his eight-year-old granddaughter Susan Jane Crow, spent last night in a tilted automobile because Dr. Crow decided to take a short cut.

The two had visited relatives in Crossett, some 75 road miles distant.

On the way home late yesterday, Dr. Crow drove his heavy automobile off the main highway and through a boggy boggy section known locally as "Python valley."

Suddenly he took a wrong turning and the automobile tumbled up to the fenders in a mud hole.

Dr. Crow and the child stayed with the automobile, keeping warm by means of the car heater. Occasionally Dr. Crow looked the horn, and early today attracted the attention of a passing farmer, who aided in setting the automobile out of the mud.

A posse of officers and volunteers had started a search for the missing pair.

The child is the daughter of Dr. Merle Crow.

Hundreds of U. S. airmen were stationed in the Azores in World War II.

The island of Terceira in the Azores group is 2,400 miles from New York.
